

This one-pager summarizes how your commission is calculated. The full plan document governs in case of any discrepancy — talk to your manager or FP&A if anything here doesn't match what you see on your statement.

How New Business commission works

New Business commission is tiered by your quarterly attainment — the more of your quota you hit, the higher your rate climbs on the ARR above that point. You don't lose the lower-tier rate on dollars you've already earned it on; each dollar is paid at the rate for the tier it falls into.

Attainment range	Applies to	Rate
0% – 100% of quota	New Business ARR	8.0%
100% – 125% of quota	New Business ARR	10.0%
125%+ of quota	New Business ARR	12.0%
Any amount	Upsell / Expansion ARR	6.0%
Any amount	Renewal ARR	3.0%

Worked example — a rep with a $150,000 quarterly quota closes $180,000 in New Business:

First $150,000 (0–100% of quota) × 8%	$12,000
Remaining $30,000 (100–120% of quota) × 10%	$3,000
Total New Business commission	$15,000

Frequently asked

When is commission paid?

Commission is calculated and accrued monthly as deals close, and paid out on the standard payroll cycle following quarter close.

Does a renewal count toward my New Business quota?

No. Renewals and Upsells are paid at their own flat rates and don't count toward the New Business tiers above.

What if I close a deal that spans two quarters?

Commission is recognized in the quarter the deal closes (contract signature date), not when payment is invoiced.

Who to ask

Questions about your quota or territory

Your Sales Manager

Questions about a specific commission calculation

FP&A — Sales Compensation

Disputing a statement

Submit within 30 days of the statement date; FP&A will review and respond within 5 business days.